C. W. ROSSELL'S.

On St. Valentine's Evening.

The Stony Plain Women's Institute celebrated February Fourteenth with an old-fashioned Valentine party at the home of Dr and Mrs R M Gately. The rooms were prettily decorated with myriads of red hearts and various other Valentine favors.

Quite a number of the guests were dressed in old-fashioned style with the powdered hair, which lent character to the scene.

Everyone entered wholeheartedly into the old-time group games - which were introduced by Mr G E Clarke during the first part of the evening.

The following musical program was then given—

Piano solo, "The Old Oaken Bucket" with variations, by Mrs C E Clarke.

Song, "An Old Fashioned Girl," Mr G E Clarke.

Reading, "Sis Mirandy on Valentines" Mrs R Wood.

Song, "An Old - Fashioned Garden," Mr C E Clarke.

Reading, "When Allam Sang," Mr R Brooks.

The valentines and fortune wheel created a great deal of mirth among all the guests.

A buffet lunch was served in the dining room, the table being tastefully decorated with valentine emblems and scented candles.

This was presided over by Mrs Henry Oppershauser, assisted by Mesdames Gately, Brooks, J F Clarke and G E Clarke.

The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing the old-fashioned dances, which program was drawn up by Miss Robertson.

The happy party terminated with the singing of Auld Lang Syne and three hearty cheers for Dr and Mrs Gately, who had so kindly lent their home for the occasion.

For a Warmer Climate.

Quite a number of the enterprising and oldest settlers of Stony Plain District, who have tired of living amid the rigors of the Northern Alberta winters, have decided to make an effort to migrate to a country where the climatic conditions are not so exacting as the constitution.

Several meetings have been held the past week by those interested in the project, and a proposition was before the last meeting to send a small delegation to inquire into the possibility of securing a location suitable.

Several places have been mentioned, such as Southern Texas and Florida, with quite a few strongly in favor of Mexico as being the country more suitable for those wishing to make the move.

The Good Beer.

The petition for stronger beer at the bars, from which so much was expected when it was made law, has had a pretty rough time since its introduction in the Legislature by the premier.

The lists, said to contain over 51,000 signatures have been subjected to a pretty close scrutiny, with the result that in a few of the constituencies, the percentage of the voters in favor of the measure have been reduced below the requisite number. These constituencies were Sturgeon, Pembina, Cardston and Beaver River.

Some surprise was expressed at the large number of ladies' names on the list, particularly in the cities, where a regular house-to-house canvass had been made, to get these.

The whole matter is now before a committee of the House, whose chairman is Hon. V.W. Smith.

Heard on Main Street.

Mike—"How were the first Scotsmen who came to Canada persuaded to leave the heat?"

Dick—"Someone sprinkled oatmeal on the gangway."

Mother and Her Baby Are Relieved of Eczema

Mrs. Peter A. Palmer, Salt Burn, Sask., writes: "Dr. Chase's Ointment has completely relieved me of eczema and piles. I also used this Ointment for my baby, who broke out in eczema. A few applications were all that was necessary in her case. Dr. Chase's Ointment has been worth a hundred dollars to me—before using it I had spent a great deal more than that in unsuccessful treatment from doctors. We have also used Dr. Chase's other medicines, the Nerve Food having restored my health after suffering from severe nerve trouble when a girl."

MOTHER! MOVE CHILD'S BOWELS

"California Fig Syrup" is Child's Best Laxative

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little stomach is upset, tongue coated, or if your child is cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

First Underground Railway

London's Tube, Sixty Years Old, Has a History

Days when London's underground railway was used by women in trimmings and men in the top hats and side whiskers of the mid-Victorian period, are recalled by the fact that the Metropolitan Railway has celebrated its diamond jubilee.

The original Metropolitan Railway, which was opened on January 10, 1863, ran from Farringdon Street to Bishop's Road, Paddington, 3½ miles. More than 30,000 people were carried on the opening day and almost as many on each succeeding day.

There was much opposition to its construction. It was asserted that its tunnels would collapse, that the vibration would make the houses above it uninhabitable, and that passengers would be asphyxiated by fumes.

So much resistance was offered to the construction of Regent's Park that the tunnel had to dip in order to pass under a subway running from Park Crescent, under the Marylebone Road to Park Square.

There were many other engineering problems to be solved. The Fleet Ditch sewer (which the railway crosses three times), had to be diverted. During the work of construction the sewer burst at Farringdon Street, causing great damage. All obstacles were overcome, however, and today the tunnels, built 66 years ago, and cased in rings of brick eight deep, are firmer than when they were built.

A Navy Memorial

Belgian King Will Lay Foundation Stone at Zebrugge Mole

The work of restoring Zebrugge harbor has been quickened within the past month or two, in readiness for the laying by the King of the Belgians, early in April, of the foundation stone of the memorial to the ratings of the Royal Navy who fell in the fight for the Mole. The saving of the ships sunk to bottle up the "U" boats is almost completed, and the breach in the Mole itself has been repaired. Zebrugge is now clear for the ferry service. In regard to the memorial, an Anglo-Belgian committee, under the presidency of Lord Emmott, are spending $20,000 francs on the scheme, surrounded by St. George and the Dragon, which has been designed by M. Dupont, the Brussels sculptor, and will be set up near the Mole as a symbol and a landmark to the seamen of the world.

WINTER WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Our Canadian winters are exceedingly hard on the health of little ones. The weather is often so severe that the mother cannot take the little one out for an airing. The consequence is that baby is confined to overcast, badly ventilated rooms; takes cold and becomes cross and peevish. Baby's Own Tablets should be given to keep the little one healthy. They are a mild laxative which regulate the stomach and bowels and thus prevent colds. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. Real Imperial Unity Is Essential For Return Of Prosperity Within Empire

Field Marshal Sir William Robertson, Bt., G.C.B., writing in the London Daily Telegraph, says: "For the last three or four years we have been constantly lectured from the platform and pulpit, by Parliament and in the press, as to what should be done in order to extricate the world from the quagmire into which it was cast by the Great War. The remedies suggested have been as varied as numerous, but we are still without what we want—a reasonably assured peace and economic prosperity, international conference having the same object in view, and held with wearisome frequency, have proved no less abortive, notwithstanding the unanimity of opinion which, we have invariably been told authoritatively and in large type, characterized their proceedings."

To revert to peace conditions after the upheaval caused by a world war must necessarily be a tedious as well as a precarious task, but an increasing number of people in Great Britain are fast coming to the conclusion that better progress would have been made had we given more attention to our own affairs and to those of other nations. It was mainly because of this feeling that a deep sigh of ascent went forth when, on taking office, the new Prime Minister declared that what we most needed was a period of tranquillity—time to settle about our own business and to get on with it. The "Reconstruction of Europe," so persistently dinned into our ears, is a very laudable aim, but it is not a responsibility which should rest solely upon British shoulders, and its attainment would perhaps be accelerated, and certainly not retarded, if we gave first place to the building-up of our own Empire, vast areas of which remain unexploited and unpopulated. Far too much time has been wasted since the armistice on such matters as mandates which nobody wants, reparations which nobody will get, and squabbles between Greece and Turkey which have existed for nearly 500 years past. Had a little of it been spent in trying to make good within the Empire itself what has been lost in the markets of Europe, the position might have been far more satisfactory than it is. The resources of the Empire are almost limitless. The only await organized development, and for this the first requisite is real Imperial unity.

The end of the war left us one people, more closely united than we had ever been before. The common danger which brought us together has since disappeared, and once again we seem to be drifting apart. The new Imperial spirit of sympathy and respect evoked on the battlefields of France and Gallipoli, Mesopotamia and Palestine, has led to little more than pious aspirations which lead us nowhere. The war taught us how to do together, we have also to learn how to live together, and it behooves us to seek about this without delay, for, as the Prince of Wales has said, "an Empire worth dying for is worth living for and working for." Stated brutally, Imperial unity will come when it can be shown to pay, and not before. Just as the life-blood of an Empire in time of war is patriotism, so in time of peace it is trade.

This brings us up against the thorny question of Imperial economy, in which I am not qualified to enter, but the most promising scheme for increasing inter-Imperial trade is clearly that which will bring buyers and sellers, manufacturers and merchants, together from every part of the Empire and teach them exactly how, when and where each may buy from his fellow-citizens with the greatest mutual profit and advantage. The British Empire Exhibition, which will open at Wembley Park, London, in the spring of 1924, is the greatest experiment in practical Imperialism that the world has ever seen. As propaganda it is unprecedented; as an exhibition it is far larger than any that has ever before been held in Britain. Visitors will eat Empire food, observe the wonders of the Empire's scientific inventions, see Imperial art, hear British music and drama, watch British cinema films, and have before them the complete range of everything made or built or dug within the Empire. Everything produced or producible in any British land will be displayed. The requirements of men and money of each district will be made clear.

The exhibition will also be of assistance in regard to Imperial defence, another essential element of Imperial efficiency. One section will be entirely composed of exhibits relating to the Navy, Army and Air Force, such as ordnance and artillery equipment, engineering, hydraulics, torpedoes, hygienic and sanitary apparatus, and administration. Other sections will include exhibits of road, rail and sea transport, electrical implements, and machinery and chemistry, all of which have to be called into requisition when naval and military operations take place. War is not a popular topic at the present time, but it may be mentioned that only a few weeks have elapsed since it was deemed to be near enough to justify the Home Government in asking the Dominions whether they would consent to take part in it. This incident is an example of the suddenness with which the hideous spectre of war may reappear at any moment, and it shows that appropriate provision for war cannot be neglected without incurring the risk of our being caught, as often before, unprepared. Financial considerations demand that expenditure on the fighting services should be kept down to the lowest possible limit, but there is much that can be done at comparatively small cost.

Many Homesteads Taken

Increase of 1,960 in Homestead Entries in Canada in Past Year. There was an increase of 1,960 in the number of homestead entries during the fiscal year (1921-1922), according to the annual report of W. W. Cory, Deputy Minister of the Interior. The number granted last year was 7,349. Manitoba showed the greatest percentage of increase, having more than double the number of the year before.

Letters patent issued were 13,116, accounting for 2,934,519 acres. This shows a decrease in the three prairie provinces, but an increase in area is registered in the Northwest and Yukon territories, and in Dominion lands in British Columbia.

Night Flight From London to Paris

Course Was Marked Out By Special Lighting Signals

An aeroplane flying through the darkness from the British field at Croydon, England, made a successful landing at Le Bourget. The plane followed a course marked out by special lighting signals and the aviator reported his progress by wireless telephone. When he arrived at Beauvais, 64 miles from Paris, where a fog forced the last experimental night flight to land, the aviator sighted the light on the Le Bourget flying field whereupon he dropped a green flare. This was the signal for the illumination of the field and the subsequent landing was perfect. It is expected that a regular night passenger service will be started soon between Croydon and Le Bourget.

Record Of Achievement In Western Canada By Dominion Land Surveyors

That the record of the association during the last seventeen years, and particularly during the past year, has been one of steady progress, was emphasized in reports presented at the opening session of the annual meeting of the Dominion Land Surveyors' Association. There was a large attendance of members from many parts of the Dominion and the key note of the opening addresses and discussions was one of optimism. The president's address, as well as the reports of the various committees, dealt with important developments which have taken place recently and indicated some of the lines along which progress could be made in the future.

The president, C. H. Horriat, stressed the fact that the members of the association had built up a splendid record of achievement, and had written their names deeply into the history of Western Canada. He sketched the early history of the Dominion Land Survey. Since its inception, the surveyors connected with the Dominion Lands Office and later with the Topographical Survey Branch had subdivided a total area of 178,698,945 acres or 1,116,863 quarter sections out of the approximately 1,400,000,000 acres of the subdivided zone. He surveyed, largely for the purpose of establishing lot corners, had been carried out in over 1,420 townships. Since 1913, about 4,029 townships had been examined and the water areas had been surveyed. Since 1918 not less than 20,500,000 acres, or 23,000 square miles of land, had been examined and classified as to suitability for settlement and a reconnaissance of 1,117,000 acres or 12,700 square miles, as a preliminary to a more detailed examination, had been made.

"To say the least," remarked the President in concluding his address, "the extent of the work carried out by the Dominion Land Surveyors up to the present is very great indeed, and all of this has been accomplished by somewhat less than the 1,117 surveyors who have been commissioned since the inception of the Dominion Land Survey."

The report of the Topographical Surveys Committee pointed out that during the year considerable progress had been made in the use of aerial photography for mapping purposes. Both vertical and oblique photographs had been taken, generally in conjunction with forest patrol work, and from experiments with these pictures taken under various conditions, a better understanding of their useful application had been learned. The survey of the Manitoba-Ontario boundary had not only brought back complete topographical information of a strip of country two or three miles wide and 150 miles in length, but it had located the position of the headwaters of the important rivers flowing into Lake Winnipeg. It now formed a base from which other explorations and surveys might be started or connected to it as would later be required.

The report of the Land Settlement Committee, dealing with conditions in the Canadian West, states that the land surveyors knew only too well that the farmer in the west was not receiving a sufficient return for his time and labor. Today he was poorer than before the war, and from twenty to forty per cent. on account of the higher cost of production and decreased purchasing power.

In the working out of a sound land settlement scheme, the following suggestions, in view of the conditions prevailing, deserved serious consideration:

- (1) Withdrawal from arid lands of lands which are not suitable for that purpose.
- (2) Less dependence upon grain growing only and more attention to mixed farming. Farming would then be a twelve-month instead of a six-month job. To some extent this would relieve the winter unemployment situation.
- (3) Care in the selection of settlers and discrimination in locating them on the land.
- (4) The extension of agricultural educational facilities. The farmer should know all that there is to know about the best farm methods. Even today, the present educational facilities, available to the farmer in the way of government bulletins, etc., are not fully appreciated.
- (5) Control of settlement instead of scattered settlement under the present homestead system.
- (6) Development of all potential agricultural lands within a reasonable distance of existing lines of railroad.

If you have tried other remedies without success, do not fail to get at once a package of this uniformly successful preparation.

Another Addition to Canada's Finest Railway Station

For some little time gangs of men have been busy on the building of an important addition to the Canadian Pacific Western Street Station at Montreal. In a measure this addition to the operating facilities at headquarters is a reflection of the feeling of confidence in the future voiced in recent utterances of the company's President, Mr. E. W. Beatty. The new addition fronts on DuRoi Street, and will partly be used as an extension of Dominion Express offices and to the offices of the Canadian Pacific Steamships Department. For the present the addition will remain only three stories high. The need for space is so urgent that work is being rushed with all possible speed.

HELP FOR YOUNG WOMEN

Mrs. Holmberg Tells How
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Viking, Alta.—"From the time I was 16 years old I would get such sick feelings in the lower part of my abdomen, followed by cramps and vomiting. This kept me from my work (I help my parents on the farm) as I usually had to go to bed for the rest of the day. At times I would have to walk the floor. I suffered in this way until a friend induced me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have had very satisfactory results so far and am recommending the Vegetable Compound to my friends. I surely am glad I tried it for I feel like a different person now that I don't have these troubles."

OBELIA HOLMBERG, Box 93, Viking, Alta.
Letters like this establish the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They tell of the relief from such pains and ailments as afflict many young women. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills in this country, and thousands of voluntary testimonials prove this fact.

If you doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario, for Mrs. Pinkham's private text-book and learn more about it.

lights of Crawling Water in the distance below.

He had covered some five miles of his journey, to no other sound than the occasional note of some bird, when his quick ears caught the thud of a horse's feet on the trail ahead, with now and then a sharp clatter as the animal slipped on the stones. Wade slowed his horse down to a walk and eased his Colt in its holster. He expected to meet some hantless wanderer, but, under the circumstances, it was just as well to be prepared for trouble. Soon, however, he smiled to himself, for whoever rode toward him, made too much noise for any but a peaceful mission. The other horse, too, had been slowed down and the two riders approached each other with such caution that the rancher finally became impatient and pressed forward recklessly.

Out of the night the stranger came on, still slowly, until a turn in the trail brought them face to face.

"Don't shoot!" said a woman's contralto. "I'm a friend."

"Dorothy!" Wade ejaculated, at once recognizing the voice, although he could not see the girl distinctly in the darkness. "In Heaven's name, what are you doing out here?"

"Is it you, Gordon?" In her relief, she laughed softly as she pulled her pony up side of him. "I was a little scared for a second or two. I've a very bad news, I'm afraid," she added, immediately serious. "I've been trying to find you. I went to the hotel and they told me you'd gone somewhere."

"Miss Heshill and I went to call on you."

"You did? If I'd only known. I've been clear out to the ranch."

"Is Santry there?" In his anxiety he forgot momentarily the loneliness of her long ride. "They say some of Jensen's men have been about up; and I'm anxious to find out what Bill knows."

"That's just what I want to tell you. I heard of the shooting before I left town. Whoa, Gypsy!" She reined up her pony, nervously, for it would not stand still. "Wade seized the animal's bridle and quieted it. 'I don't know if he's there or not,' the girl went on. 'I couldn't see. The ranch house is full of men.'"

"Men? What men?" Wade demanded sharply.

"Race Moran's crowd. They went out to arrest Santry. The Sheriff is with them. I heard part of it in town, and that's why I tried to find you."

Wade groaned. "I peeped in at a window, and when I could see neither you nor Santry I slipped away before being seen and took the old trail back because it was shorter."

"Lord, what a mess!" Wade ground his teeth savagely. "Poor old Bill was all alone there and they must have surprised him. I don't see why Barker didn't mention the posse when he told me of the shooting!"

"He didn't know of it, probably. They left town very quietly. I happened to be out back of the house and I heard some of them talking as they rode by."

"Good Lord!" Wade's head dropped. "I told Bill to stay at the ranch, and he promised me . . ."

"I don't believe he shot Jensen at all," Dorothy declared, with spirit. "Yes, it was Jensen himself and one of his herders. Both in the back—"

"Bill Santry never shot any man in the back," Wade declared, in a relieved tone. "If you're sure of the facts, Santry will come clear all right."

"It's just a devilish scheme of Moran's, that's all, to put it on you and me. I'm sure it is. I'll be right with you both. Whoa, Gypsy!" She reined the little mare in again. "No, it's all right, Gordon. I can manage her," she remonstrated, as he reached for the bridle once more.

"So that's their name, eh? By Heaven, I more than half believe you're right." His face grew ugly with rage. "Dorothy," he continued grimly, "thanks are useless. You're a brick, that's all. Do one thing more for us, will you?"

"Anything," she replied simply, her eyes shining with devotion to him, but he was too overwrought to read them in the darkness.

"When you get back to town get word to some of the men for me. You may meet them on the way out, if not they'll be around the barn. Tell them to meet me at the big pine, on the old trail."

His horse had grown restless and now he allowed it to have its head; he was moving past her when she clutched his arm.

"Gordon!"

She loved him dearly, too dearly to let him know how well until he should speak, if he ever did speak; but above them hovered the wondrous spirit of the Western night. Her pulse was beating, too, to the call of danger, and despite the control which she had over her nerves, she was just a bit hysterical beneath the surface. She knew that the man who had shot his first day of hostile men, and already that day two men had been killed. So, tremulously, she held on to his sleeve, until she stopped him.

"What are you going to do? You can't do anything alone against so many. They may kill you."

Her sympathy was very sweet to him and he warmly squeezed the little hand which had held his back.

"Don't you be afraid, little girl," he said tenderly. "I shall not get hurt if I can help it."

"Wait until the others come, won't you?"
"Surely," he answered readily, touched by the anxiety in her voice. "I'm going to look around—just as you did—on the quiet. You wouldn't hold me back, where you went in, now would you?"

"No—!" She smiled a little into his face.

"That's the stuff! Then I'm coming back to the big pine, and you'll send the boys there. They'll not put Santry in jail if we can prevent them. They've played their last card to-night. It's war from now on."

"All right, Gordon, I'll go." Her voice was full of courage again; the moment of weakness had passed. "Remember now, take good care of yourself."

"You bet," he retorted cheerily, and as her mare moved ahead, he caught her arm as she had caught his. She went quite limp in her saddle and swayed toward him, but he merely added: "You're a wonder, Dorothy."

He released her then, and with a wave of her hand she disappeared into the night. Not until she was beyond recall did he realize that he might have kissed her, that she had wanted him to kiss her, for the first time since they had known each other. He sat in abstraction for several moments before he shook the reins in his hand and his horse sprang forward.

"I've kissed one girl to-day," he muttered aloud, "and I reckon that's enough."

The Boycott Battle In Germany Is Now Becoming More Acute

Essen.—The boycott battle between the Franco-Belgian occupational forces and the Germans is daily becoming more acute in the Ruhr, particularly in Essen. The most noticeable features are the failure of co-operation on the part of the German police and the refusal of hotels and merchants to serve the French and Belgians.

In retaliation, the allies seized two of the largest hotels in Essen, but this was met by further active opposition on the part of the Germans. Yesterday the Germans severed the electric currents supplying the Kaiserhof Hotel, where the allied engineering commission was quartered. The French countered with an ultimatum that unless the lights were restored by six o'clock the entire lighting system of the city would shut down. At that hour the Kaiserhof was still without electric light, but the city lights continue to blaze forth.

Vice-Burgomaster Schaffer was arrested in connection with an incident in which a detail of troops went to the municipal lighting plant to cut the power were obliged to leave without achieving this purpose because the doors were tightly barred.

Refers to Yellow Peril

Sir Edmund Walker Says World May Be Dominated by Asiatics

Toronto.—Sir Edmund Walker, President of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, addressing the Electric Club here, suggested the possibility of the world coming under control of the yellow races if the present declining birth rate among the white nations continued and the yellow races continued to multiply. He pointed to the fact that Japan, which has only half the area of British Columbia, had a population of over sixty million.

Speaking particularly of Japan, which he had recently visited, Sir Edmund said it was the duty of Canadians to try to understand the Japanese people and to trade and live with them as world neighbors.

"The sooner we come to an understanding of the kind of relations we are going to have with them, the better," he said.

New Brunswick Man Cannot Say Too Much in Favour of Dodd's Kidney Pills

He Advises all Persons who Suffer from Kidney Disease to use them.

Peter Ridge, N.B.—(Special).—From all over New Brunswick reports are coming telling of the popularity of Dodd's Kidney Pills as a remedy for all forms of kidney trouble.

In every place, however small, there appears to be at least one person who is prepared to say that he owes his health to the great Canadian remedy. Mr. Edward Chandler, a well-known resident here is one of them.

"I have taken ten boxes of your Dodd's Kidney Pills and cannot say too much in their favour," Mr. Chandler states. "They are worth their weight in gold and I shall advise all who suffer from kidney disease to use them."

Dodd's Kidney Pills have become a family remedy because people have tried them and found them good. They help Rheumatism, Lumbago, Diabetes, Lame Back, Heart Disease and Urinary troubles, because all of these are either Kidney Diseases or are caused by the kidneys failing to do their work.

Free State Troops In Action

Encircling Movement Is Being Made Against Irish Irregulars

London.—Nearly 1,000 Free State troops, with airplanes, dozens of armored cars and howitzers, are taking part in the encircling movement in the Arigna Mountains, County Cavan, against the Irish irregular leader Bohn, whose headquarters are in the heart of the hills, says a dispatch to the News from Belfast. Irregulars are concealed at points commanding the passes, which are said to be mined.

Work has been suspended by the population over a wide area in the vicinity, the farm workers watching the extensive operations and listening to the barking of the big guns. Bohn has with him General Frank Allen, who twice captured Dundalk, at the head of irregular forces.

Breaks Shipbuilding Record

London.—Germany has beaten her pre-war shipbuilding record, according to figures published here. Her output in 1922 was $25,000 tons, as compared with 509,000 tons in 1921, 440,000 tons in 1920 and 465,000 tons in 1919.

The German shipbuilding industry does not seem to have suffered from the general depression and, owing to the low cost of production, it has apparently become a formidable competitor to the industry in the United States and Great Britain.

Commission Investigating Grain Transportation On The Great Lakes

Winnipeg.—It was for the purpose of disciplining Canadian boat owners that representations were made last year to the Minister of Trade and Commerce to have the coastwise laws suspended, asserted James Stewart, former head of the Wheat Board of Canada, when under cross-examination before the royal commission investigating transportation of grain on the Great Lakes. His reason for making these representations was that he objected to steamship owners making a higher charge from Fort William to Port Colborne than to Buffalo. It was also stated that as early as September he had made space reservations for October, November and December at four cents a bushel, whereas the average price charged in those months was 10 to 11 cents.

He explained that there was nothing morally wrong in a shipper chartering ahead of time unless he happened to gauge the market wrongly. He regarded it as good business if he could guess right. Sometimes a shipper would charter space ahead of time, and at others he would charter a particular boat. Mr. Stewart said there was nothing in the price particularly favorable to him at the time he made the contract. To Dr. McLean, chairman of the Commission, Mr. Stewart said insurance rates were pretty well standardized.

and there had been no change in the last two years.

Smyrna Harbor Mined

French Skipper Signalled From Shore Not to Enter

Marseilles.—Smyrna harbor is thoroughly laid with mines which extend out to sea for a considerable distance, according to the captain of the steamer Pierre Loti, which arrived here. The captain said that when he attempted to enter the harbor the forts signalled him that if he did so it would be on his own responsibility. He said he then requested attached a pilot and, after waiting 24 hours for one, put the ship on her course for Marseilles.

Inga M. D. Notes.
Inga Municipal District ratepayers held their annual meeting in Stony Plain on Saturday afternoon last, with "Municipal Auditor" William Best presiding. Some considerable time was taken up reading the Financial Statement for the year past, no printed copies being available at the opening of the meeting. Later, some of these were brought in, but an explanation was given that part of the financial statement had been omitted from the printed form. One Councillor gave a little speech, apologis-ing for the deficit for the year which is said to be in the neighborhood of $5000, this being explained as owing to the low mill rate set by the 1922 Councillors: When nominations were called for Councillors in three divisions the following were put up—Division 1—Murd McKinlay,
August Burger.
Division 2—Geo. Kulak,
Reinhold Goerz.
Division 4—Mr Hopkins re-elected by acclamation.
Division 5 polling booth is at Warden School, with Capt R A Gosset as returning officer.

A Shock Coming.
The government has permitted the information to go out in advance of the budget that it is facing a large deficit. It is intimated that the deficit may run to as high as $1,700,000. In this fashion the government is preparing the province for the disappointment in store for it and probably for a new array of taxes.
The province will look to Premier Greenfield to be very frank and detailed in his explanation of this deficit. The people were led to believe that a principal purpose in selecting a farmer government was to secure an administration prepared to plan drastic economies and capable of putting them into effect. It begins to look as though that faith has been misplaced.—
Calgary Herald.

Highways Commis'n Selected
The new highways commission for Alberta is an established fact, the act bringing this board and the new highways regulations being passed at the session of the legislature one year ago and automatically coming into effect the first of the present year.
John Gaer of Killam, president of the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts, is the latest appointment to the board. Mr. Gaer was one of the candidates for U.F.A.
Nomination at the Sedgewick by-election, having lost to Mr. A.
G. Andrews, sitting member for that constituency.
Chairman Dimdale of the commission was appointed last year, and his other associates on the board are J.D.R. Barton, deputy minister of public works, and Prof.
K.A. Clark, chemical engineer at the university of Alberta. The fifth member of the board who is to be chosen outside government ranks, had not yet been decided on.

Raising 97-cent Steers.
Last week a local farmer, says the Battleford Press, received his returns for a cow he had shipped to Winnipeg. The animal weighed 850 lbs., and for same he received the munificent sum of two cents per lb., or $17 gross. Expenses amounted to $7.31, leaving him $9.69 for his cow—about the price of a good pair of shoes. Oh, no! it wasn't a case of robbery by the con-signees, for the animal was sold to the United Grain Growers.

But that isn't the worst we can cite. Another local farmer shipped a 3 year-old steer the other day to the same company. It weighed 950 lbs.
for which he secured 1 cent per lb. That steer which took three years to raise netted said farmer the exact sum of 97 cents.

Here is another side of the picture: In the same car with the 97-cent animal was another steer which weighed 1340 pounds, but which netted the owner the handsome sum of $87.

The cattle market is in bad shape, lamentably bad; but in one respect the cattle market has not changed from what it was in pre-war days—it still pays immeasurably better returns on good stuff than on poor.
